The Rector Writes

The season of Advent should be all about preparing for the coming of Christ but for most of us it's a fraught rush to prepare for Christmas. As Christians we can be torn between what we feel should be a time of quiet reflection and the very human desire to join in the fun and make sure that we have everything ready in time. There will always be some tension between these two but if we try to keep the true meaning of Christmas as our focus, I think we can pull off both!

To help explore this I offer two pieces of writing. The first is a re-imagining of Paul's first letter to Corinthians, Chapter 13; where he talks about the meaning of love. It is a helpful reminder to us that all the 'tasks' we feel we have to do in order to be 'ready' for Christmas must not override the more important job of loving ourselves and others. We must not strive for the illusory perfect Christmas that we see in films and television adverts, because that way lies mental ill health and a strain on relationships. Rather, amidst the mess and muddle of reality, if we keep sight of what truly matters: God and love, then it will not matter if the jobs don't get done!

If I decorate my house perfectly with bows and strands of twinkling lights, but do not show love to others, I'm just another decorator.

If I slave away baking and preparing lavish meals and arranging a beautifully adorned table but do not show love to others, I'm just another cook.

If I work at the food bank, sing carols in high street and give all that I have to charity, but do not show love to others, it profits me nothing.

If I trim the tree with shimmering angels, attend parties and go to Midnight Mass but do not focus on Christ, I have missed the point.

Love stops the cooking to hug the child. Love sets aside the decorating to help another.

Love is kind, though harried and tired. Love doesn't envy another's home that has coordinated Christmas china and table linens.

Love doesn't ask children to get out of the way but is thankful they are there to be in the way. Love doesn't give only to those who are able to give in return but rejoices in giving to those who cannot.

Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. Love never fails. Phones will break, pearl necklaces will be lost, golf clubs will rust, but giving the gift of love will endure.

This passage culminates with the truth that love is an eternal gift. It is often hard to know what to buy for others, partly because most of us, here in the West, have so much. And of course, we are now becoming ever more aware of the problems that plastic and 'rubbish' are causing our planet. All of us will, I hope, this year look for things and wrapping that can be, or have been, recycled or find ways to give presents that are 'greener'. And here the gift of love wins hands down, for as Paul says in I Corinthians 13, the gift of love endures.

We can offer this gift in so many ways. Instead of a physical gift, we could perhaps make an offering of our time or money? Gifts to charities, a home-made voucher for babysitting, or car washing, pet walking, ironing..... all are practical ways of showing our love for others. You may not have thought of prayer or behaviour as gifts but in the busyness of this season they can be amongst the precious. When we have to queue in shops or traffic, we can refuse to become impatient but instead make conversation or at least offer a smile or silently pray for those around us. We can take extra care to pray for and thank those who silently watch over the routine of our daily lives, those who produce, transport and sell the food we will be eating, provide our utilities, collect our refuse, deliver our post, the medical and emergency services..... many of whom will be working throughout Christmas.

Or we could perhaps make or write something, offering our creativity and thoughtfulness as the most precious of gifts that show our love? The front cover of our magazine this year is a photo of an engraving from the Journey into Light Exhibition we hosted earlier this year. Showing the traditional nativity scene, it was created by a serving offender, a reminder that although separated from family, love is undiminished.

The poet Ursula Fanthorpe came up with a wonderful gift for her friends. Each year she would include a Christmas poem within her cards, one of which, entitled 'BC – AD' is a beautiful take on the nativity. It is printed overleaf immediately after this letter.

We will, once more, host many services in the Parish this month (as listed on page 5 of this magazine) as we try to explore and share the most precious gift of all: the love of God.

Why not join us, and invite family and friends, so that together we can walk haphazardly towards the true meaning of Christmas and into the kingdom of heaven.

With every blessing

Georgina

BC – AD
A Christmas Poem by Ursula Fanthorpe

This was the moment when Before
Turned into After, and the future's
Uninvented timekeepers presented arms.

This was the moment when nothing
Happened. Only dull peace
Sprawled boringly over the earth.

This was the moment when even energetic Romans
Could find nothing better to do
Than counting heads in remote provinces.

And this was the moment
When a few farm workers and three
Members of an obscure Persian sect

Walked haphazard by starlight straight
Into the kingdom of heaven.

THE 200+ CLUB

A big THANK YOU to all who have supported the 200+ Club in the past year.

The 200+ Club is a fun and simple way of raising funds for St. Helen's. Each month starting in January a draw will be made and prizes of £100, £20 and £10 are given. It costs only £1 to have your number in each monthly draw (an annual subscription of £12). The proceeds after the prizes are allocated go to maintain the fabric of the Parish Church.

Now is the time to renew or to begin your membership of the 200+ club, by completing and returning a simple application form (from the back of Church) or by contacting Dianne Ouseley on 01829 733639. Existing members should have received a renewal form during November to be completed and returned before 31st December 2019.

Please note that the draw will take place in 2020 on the 2nd Sunday of each month.

200+ results for October 2019

An apology and correction from the Link Editor.

'Cut and Paste' is a wonderful device which can save both time and effort in searching for and pressing the correct keys on a QWERTY keyboard.

However, when using this device in the construction of November's issue, your editor managed to reverse the flow of time by a whole year and reprint the October 2018 200+ results masquerading as the 2019 results. Apologies for this simple error (particularly to those who had their hopes falsely raised).

The 'real' results are printed here.

The winners of the October 200+ club draw are:

First Prize	£100	No. 32 - Mrs N Pollard
Second Prize	£20	No. 19 Miss F J Witter
Third Prize	£10	No. 37 - Mr S Wright

(Thank you for your support proceeds to St Helen's Parish Church maintenance)

And here (hopefully correct) are the November 2019 200+ results.

The winners of the November 200+ club draw are:

First Prize	£100	No. 107 - Mr M Buck
Second Prize	£20	No. 75 Mrs J Christian
Third Prize	£10	No. 166 - Mr G Noblett

(Thank you for your support proceeds to St Helen's Parish Church maintenance)

Curate's Blog November 2019

A few months ago, before I was ordained, I went to a barber for a much-needed trim. It was not in the village and not an establishment I had been to very often. I was a little intimidated by the profusion of tattoos adorning the barber, not to mention the choice of interior décor. Settling in the chair, I was waiting for the dreaded usual opening question. "Are you still working then? Is this a day off?" Polite conversation no doubt, but I always felt compelled to be honest and tell questioners that yes, I had retired (sort of) to start training to become a vicar. Most of the time that guaranteed no further conversation. This time, however, my barber said, "Oh that's interesting. I went to a Baptism the other day, but didn't see the point. What is it all about?"

Manna from heaven for a student who had just been studying a module on Sacramental Theology, I launched into my reply. I told him that we baptise because Jesus was himself baptised in the river Jordan; that Jesus' last command was for us to make disciples of everyone, baptising them in the process. Baptism is, as a result, one of the two main Sacraments in the Church of England, the other being Holy Communion (or Eucharist). Warming to my subject, I went on to talk about water being used to symbolise the passage from death to resurrection, of candles being used to symbolise Jesus as the light of the world and so on.

It was not until reflecting recently on the first two Baptisms I had ever conducted, that I realised how different my answer could have been. What I could have said is that it is such a joyful occasion for family and friends to get together in a building large enough for all of them, free of charge. I could have said that I don't know for certain what actually happens when I say the words "I baptise you in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit"; I don't know for certain what happens when I pray for the child and for the family and their friends. No one really knows for certain, for such is the mystery of God. What I can see and feel is joy, happiness and love in the church. What I think I can also feel is Angels rejoicing at a new life being publicly proclaimed for Christ. Such is my faith.

I went back to the barber a couple of weeks ago. He didn't remember me or our conversation, but I will keep going back and one day will summon up the courage to apologise and to talk to him about the love of God rather than the theory of God.

Julian

A Living History walk along the High Street Tarporley.

On a damp Saturday in late October Pat Symms (from a Tarporlean family of long standing) led two groups of people up and down Memory Lane High Street and gave us a fascinating insight into how the village has both changed and retained its character over the past century. We learnt about the arrival and disappearance of the gas works, the disappearance of Smithies (cont o'leaf) and the permanence of our Hospital, schools, churches and drinking establishments. The tour started and/or finished with an excellent tea in one of our longest standing buildings (The Done Room). Thank you Pat.

Remembrance Sunday

The 2019 Remembrance Sunday service and parade took place on a beautiful crisp sunny day and was attended, as it was last year, by people and groups from all around Tarporley packing the church, churchyard and High Street.

The parade preceding the service started in Burton Square and was led by Anna the Shire Horse.

During the service the children of today read out the names of those who lost their lives in conflict.

As the last name was read out the tenor bell rang eleven times and two minutes silence was observed in respect of the fallen.

Digital giving at St Helen's

The Christian Giving Group has been working on providing two facilities for making a financial contribution to the church digitally – a facility on the website and the provision of a card reader in church. Many people use debit and credit cards to make day-to-day payments and we are getting similar facilities for giving to the church. This should be particularly helpful for people who do not attend St Helen's regularly, but come for weddings and funerals, for instance, but it can be used by anyone. Donations will qualify for Gift Aid.

The website arrangements, with a giving button on our website, have been somewhat delayed, principally because the free sponsor we chose has been overwhelmed by applications and we are currently held as they work through 300 applications. When applications do re-open we have done what is necessary and I hope the process will be relatively quick.

The provision of a card reader has been more successful and we were lucky enough to be one of 300 parishes to apply successfully for a free unit sponsored by VISA. This is now being installed by the north door and will be going live shortly, hopefully in time for the Christmas services. Instructions for its use will be on the unit and the sidespeople will be available to help.

If you currently give by Standing Order there is nothing you need do – please continue as usual.

Alastair Findlay
